1	06/03/2025	Capernwray	18m	5c	Chris	CH	Early season shake down dives. Water very clear as I was the first in after two days closed. Very cold though.
2			9.2m		Chris		took some footage. Practised with Karen in shallow area.

10	19/03/2025	Cairn Head	15.3m	7c	Chris	CH	Weather good so went for a quick dive. Viz improved to about 3m as we got deeper. Most of the sea life was dormant as the water is still quite cold. Nice relaxing shake down dive	RL

12					Glyn
13	21/03/2025	S.S.Woodburn	8.9m	7c	Margaret	HC	Weather did not look good a few days before but suddenly changed hence quick impromptu dive. As could be expected viz only about 2m and the wreckage has been thrown around again. Big mound of boulders now covers anchor chain area.	NT

15					Chris
16					Harry
17	12/04/2025	Cairn Head	14.2m	7c	Barry	MS	Took out both boats to do shake down dives. Big tides but not too much of a current close in. Viz only about 3.5m but might have been better down deeper. Mel and Alfie saw an octopus which is encouraging in this area where we saw a lot last year.	CH

25	02/05/2025	Isle Point	17.2m		Chris	CH	Quick dive to begin with off the Isle freeing John McGuire's anchor. Then up to Cairn Head for a nice gentle dive to introduce Becca to cold water diving. A few more fish around now and saw my first fleeting glance of an Octopus Viz only about 4m with a lot of fleck below 5m.	GM

30	03/05/2025	Cairn Head	20m	10c	Chris	CH	Back to Cairn Head as strongish NW wind made a trip to the Ouse impossible. Glyn skipped for our quests from Burnley who tried to dive the Landing Craft. Far too rough out there and their shot just dragged off the wreck. They went to Port Yerrock in search of scallops. We had a good dive and introduced Thanya to drysuit diving. Saw a huge Barrel Jellyfish which I freed from the rocks. A few catsharks around now and the odd pollack but not the shoals we saw last year.	RL

34					Becca
35	04/05/2025	Great Ouse	24.6m	10c	Chris	CH	Choppy, but went out to the Ouse with the Burnley crew following. Water looked good but again below 9m there was a lot of fleck which reduced the viz to only 5m. Lots of big lobsters on the wreck now. Returned to Devil's Bridge for a tour and pleased to find my way back to boat. Choppy off Burrow Head but sheltered at dive site. Burnley crew went off to shot the Jasper on the slack.	RL

41	05/05/2025	S.S. Jasper	13.4m	11c	Harry	CH	Hoped to get on the Jasper but arrived to find no shot which had supposedly been put on yesterday. So had to shot it with the anchor. Did this perfectly with shot landing right on the deck! Explored the wreck for Glyn's Mussel Line but no sign of it nor yestadays shot. Must have not tied it on properly. Found the old shot weighed down with mussels and tangled and lifted that removing all mussels at surface. Then explored nearby cliffs and found a good site for trainees. Harry recovered lots of plastic bottles and a buoy which we added to the Jasper shot	RL

46	10/05/2025	Cairn Head	19.6m	11c	Chris	CH	Viz not too bad at about 5m. Saw and filmed a couple of small octopus. Creatures now beginning to wake up. Went in with sea flat calm and surfaced in quite a chop. Only got out as Derek was able to skipper	DK
47					Margaret
48	11/05/2025	Cairn Head	14m	11c	Margaret	CH	We nt back to same site. Took out new member Aaron. I had to skipper as Mel could not make it.	CH
49					Elizabeth
50	12/05/2025	Slockenglass	17m	11c	Harry	HC	Last minute dive as Ghost Net dives on previous day cancelled. Bit of a drift and viz a bit soupy still	NT

52	17/05/2025	Cairn Head		12c	Lu	LDL	Taking advantage of good weather Lu took over from Mel when he injured his hand. Good dives and Lu took some good pictures	RL
53					Margaret
54	21/05/2025	S.S.Jasper	13.1m	13c	Barry	CH	Surprisingly choppy at Cairn Head, our planned site so popped up to the Jasper. Viz for some unknown reason awful at barely a metre. So bad that Barry didn't realise Jani had dropped onto wreck when she saw it and spent ages looking for her as she waited for him. Not a good intro for Aaron on his first drysuit dive. He was spot on diving wise but didn't have much of an idea where he was! Shot wearing through so needs chain attaching. Devil's Bridge totally different with 6 metre viz. Had a good tour of outer reef with lots of critters around. Glad Aaron got a good dive after first one. Seals were back and quite inquisitive	RL

61	28/05/2025	Cairn Head	22.4m	12c	Chris	CH	Mid week dive with quite a full boat for a change. Had poor expectations after recent bad weather but weather fine and viz surprisingly about 5m. 68	11/06/2025	Mc Gregor's	17.5m	13c	Chris	CH	Wind made sea quite choppy so decided to head for McGregor's. Hit it right on slack. Lots of juvenile lobsters and wrasse around. Viz about 5m. Good dive but had to drift for 40mins on surface as Derek could not get engines started. Fishermen towed him to us just as sharks were circling and then PIRSAC arrived.	DF
69					Lu
70					Elizabeth
71	15/06/2025	Port Yerrock	18.2m	13c	Chris	CH	11 divers and 2 boats reduced to 2 divers as conditions poor. Dark under water but viz about 5m. Went N. into the bay and found rocky ridges covered in Spider Crabs. Lots of scallops and a pristine sea bed full of life.	GM
72					Margaret
73	21/06/2025	Eldah Wreckage	14.5m	12c	Chris	CH	First day of our Arran trip. As weather was to be unpredictable we decided to get a dive in hand as conditions were good. First dive was a gentle drift along coast to N of entrance to Lamash bay. Viz was a good 7 to 8m. Worked our way along the edge of the kelp forest where the open sea bed began. Main thing of note was a profusion of mating Sea Hares. Never seen so many and on open seabed rather than on kelp.	Jason

84	22/06/2025	Fullerton Rock	23.5m	11c	Chris	CH	Weather not good but calm enough to get out to dive Fullerton Rock on slack. Dropped down to wall and followed it along photographing along the way. Turned to see an inquisitive young seal watching us. He soon took off to engage with the divers who were following us. As we moved round to the shallow quillies we decided to do another circuit of the wall and came across the seal again who now decided to nibble our fins and hoods. At end of dive Lu found a large octopus sleeping among the kelp. Our attentions woke him up but we managed to get some good photos of him. Viz a good 8m on this dive.	Jason

96	23/06/2025	Pillar Rock, Arran	10.7m	13c	Chris	CH	Dropped in on the south east side of Holy Island. A shallow drift southwards on edge of kelp. Mark and I found a large old admiralty anchor at beginning of dive. As we were drifting a seal shot past and I had hopes of another encounter but not to be. Quite a few pollock and wrasse in certain patches.	Jason

103		Fish Farm Slope	19.5m	12c	Chris		Choppy seas all round and so only dive possible was at a sheltered slope behind the fish farm in Lamash Bay. Did not promise much but turned out to be a good dive. A silty slope with lots of scattered mooring blocks and sandstone outcrops dotted around at around 15m. The blocks and outcrops were home to congers, lots of wrasse and squat lobsters, and some saw another octopus. A couple of ghost gear creels here and I released a very large crab from one of them. We surfaced into a strong fresh water back current

110	24/06/2025	Site12 NTZ, Arran	15m	14c	Barry	CH	Final dive with Wreckspeditions in the no take zone. Was itching to see what a protected area would be like and was not disappointed. Drifted along a scallop bed with large scallops every where and lots of other sealife mixed in. Viz a good 8/9m. Crabs and lobsters were all a good size. Not many fish around but lots of juveniles in shallower weedy parts. A line of big rocks was home to a lot of smaller creatures and again octopus and a Highland dancer were seen. At end of dive I found a dead Smooth Hound Shark with its innards eaten and scallop shells with big bite marks out of them. Probably a seal. I would say our own reefs at McGregors and Cairn Head are as good as the NTZ with greater variety and more fish around.	Jason

312	28/09/2025	Cairn Head	12.2m	15c	Lu	CH	Weather perfect but sea like cocoa after heavy rain previous day. Far from ideal conditions for Sylvester's first sea dive as viz was barely a couple of feet. He did extremely well though and coped with flooding mask and bad viz and didn't get spooked. If he can cope with this then he will have no problems diving!	RL

316	08/10/2025	Cleobulus Tomb Cave	29.8m	24c	Barry	Lepia	Hoped to do whole tunnel but Margaret had free flows so the guide didn't want to risk it. Nice to be in clear warm after our last dive at the Isle.
